Spring EduFest . . . Saturday, April 17, 2010

Featuring Bonnie Biafore and Saul Seinberg

No “Stock Talk” In April

Due to the busy April schedule, there will be no Stock Talk session. The next session will be May 8th from 9am to 10:30am complementary breakfast included at the Indian Tree restaurant.

Stock Selection Guide (SSG):
Your Guide to Investing Success

The introductory session of a three part series on the Stock Selection Guide (SSG) will be held on Saturday, April 10th, from 9am to 3:30pm at the Indian Tree restaurant. Parts 2 and 3 will be held on May 1st and May 22nd featuring the ToolKit software for quick and accurate preparation and interpretation of the SSG. The latter two parts will be taught at the Colorado

Christian University computer lab where each participant will have their own computer for step by step, click by click instruction. We are putting special emphasis on learning how to use the computer for SSG preparation and interpretation of the SSG to help evaluate stocks and support sound buy/sell decisions.

Whether you are a novice or a more experienced investor looking for a refresher on the investing methodology of BetterInvesting (BI), these three classes are designed for you.

Your instructors are experienced, knowledgeable investors who want to help you succeed in the world of investing and will give you the personal attention you need to learn the subject thoroughly. Go to our website, www.rmchapter.org, and click on “Classes” for more information and registration.

Note: Those signing up for all three parts will receive a free copy of the SSG Handbook, a $15 value.

Spring EduFest on April 17th

We are fortunate to have two of BI’s most well-known and popular speakers in former Rocky Mountain Chapter directors and teachers Saul Seinberg and Bonnie Biafore. This event will

ROCKY MOUNTAIN CHAPTER . . .

The Rocky Mountain Chapter is run by a group of dedicated volunteers who provide education and support services to BetterInvesting members and clubs in Southern Wyoming to New Mexico and from Kansas to Vail. We are always looking for new folks to join our team. If you are interested, have questions or need additional information, please contact us using the the following Chapter Contact email address: contact@rockymtn.betterinvesting.net be held at the Hilton Garden Inn Denver South/Meridian from 9:00 am till 4:30 pm. Registration begins at 8:30 am. Visit our website for details and registration: www.rmchapter.org .

Saul is an active and quite successful investor founded on the fundamental approach taught by BI. He will expand on the fundamental theme by showing us ways to bolster our investing skill with a judicious use of technical indicators.

Bonnie is the author of the Web Watch column in BI magazine and will show us ways to better utilize the internet in screening and searching for outstanding investment opportunities. She is also the author of Better Investing's Stock Selection Handbook and Using Portfolio Management Wisdom. We will additionally have a surprise guest speaker from the Better Investing Advisory Board who will present over the internet using our new GoToMeeting software. We will also have door prizes. Visit our website for details and registration: www.rmchapter.org .

Helpful Stock Screening Tools available on the Web will be discussed in Bonnie's presentation on April 17th. Here is an abstract of her talk:

In the old days, you had to trudge to the library and spend hours pouring over reference books to find good companies to evaluate as potential investments. Today, you can surf the web in your jammies and not only find companies to study but compare them to their competitors, and research down to minute detail. This presentation will review a few websites that offer helpful stock and fund screening tools as well as how to set screens up using Better Investing criteria. We will run through several real-time screens and see what comes up!

"Learning to Play the Investment Piano With BOTH Hands" is the title of Saul's three part presentation. Here is an abstract of his talk:

"Playing the Investment Piano With Both Hands" is a multi-part presentation that describes and explains the benefits of using both fundamental and technical analysis to make buy, hold and sell investment decisions.

Far from being about day trading , the Piano presentations start with a review of the basic characteristics of fundamental and technical analysis and then show how a multi-disciplined, blended approach which uses the best features of each of these analytical methods, can lead to better overall investment decisions. In particular, the Piano presentations focus on how best to discern what your stock study might be telling you.

Part 1 of the presentation will focus on an introduction to charting, relative strength and performance ("perf") charts. This discussion will include an introduction to StockCharts, one of the best charting and data sites available today.

Part 2 will cover moving averages and sentiment indicators (a general term used to describe indicators that gauge investor attitudes toward the market) and how they can be used to supplement a stock study. A look at the VIX, a risk indicator, will explore how to assess the degree of concern that the market is expressing to investors.

Part 3 will incorporate a couple of examples of how the Piano's blended approach works in actual use to take your stock studies to the next level. These examples can be used to explore your prior results and help clarify your stock study based investing decisions going forward." - Saul Seiberg

Tales from the Bright Side

Many have asked if there is any independent, objective evidence that the BI approach to investing is actually effective. Until now, that evidence was lacking as BI is a non-profit organization and independent assessments are focussed on for-profits. So that information didn't exist... that is, until now.

The Investors Advisory Service (IAS) used to be part of the BI organization and always followed the BI investment principles with strict discipline. But it was spun off and made a part of ICLUB some ten years ago. ICLUB was and is a for-profit organization even though it recently merged with BI. BI continues as the non-profit educational arm of the merged organization while ICLUB sells software and support including the IAS Newsletter. As a for-profit newsletter, its performance started being tracked ten years ago by the Hulbert Digest. Mark Hulbert and his company have become very well known for specializing in monitoring and evaluating the actual performance of financial newsletters.

The Hulbert Digest follows some 180 newsletters of every stripe and description including the IAS Newsletter. Hulbert notes that over the past ten years, 80% of the newsletters they follow have underperformed the market. For the folks subscribing to those newsletters, it would have been better had they just bought a broad market index fund. But how about the IAS Newsletter which follows the BI method?

The Hulbert Financial Digest

just announced their top ten newsletters for long term investment performance from 2000 to 2010. The IAS Newsletter was named to third place for performance in both up and down markets. In short, the IAS Newsletter beat out 177 other newsletters for performance as measured by a totally independent, objective source. This speaks volumes about the effectiveness of disciplined, long term investing the BI way.

Many clubs have subscriptions to the IAS Newsletter which follows 80 companies using BI methodology and selects three new companies for highlighting in each monthly issue of the newsletter. Every analysis includes a completed SSG. The IAS is managed by Seeger-Elvekrog and its team of chartered financial analysts

What can we take away from this? The BI method, when followed strictly over the long term, will yield good investment returns and outperform the overall market, virtually all financial newsletters, and most mutual fund managers. Today, we have the proof that makes this statement a simple fact. But it takes good knowledge of the caliber one gets by attending our chapter's classes and seminars and it takes good discipline to apply what is learned. Also remember that risk is reduced over time, so investing needs to be a life-time activity and one must always take the long term view.

“The market, like the Lord, helps those who help themselves. But unlike the Lord, the market does not forgive those who know not what they do.” – Warren Buffett
